The chart displays the volume of tweets categorized by sentiment over a one-month period. The Y-axis, labeled 'Number of Tweets', ranges from 0K to 10K. The X-axis, labeled 'Year', spans from December 2022 to January 2023. Three data series are plotted: Negative (dark blue), Neutral (yellow), and Positive (brown). The Neutral sentiment series shows the highest peaks, reaching nearly 10K tweets in early January. The Positive sentiment series also shows significant peaks, while the Negative sentiment series generally maintains the lowest volume, though it shows a sharp increase towards the end of the period.

A world map illustrating the global distribution of Microsoft Edge users. The map uses a color-coded system to represent different continents: North America (light blue), South America (light green), Europe (light orange), Africa (light yellow), Asia (light purple), and Australia (light pink). The map shows a high density of users in North America, Europe, and Asia, with a significant concentration in the United States and Europe. The Atlantic Ocean and Indian Ocean are labeled. The Microsoft Bing logo is in the bottom left corner, and the copyright notice '© 2023 Microsoft Corporation' is in the bottom right corner.
